

HOW TO DRIVE UNDER THE NEW MOTOR VEHICLE LAW

Pamphlets published by private firms digesting the "California Vehicle Act," which became effective at midnight, August 31, have erroneously interpreted the section concerning the new right-of-way rule, according to a statement issued this week by Leroy E. Towne, general counsel and director of the California State Automobile Association.

"Digest of the act," said Towne, "have created the impression that the driver entering the intersection from the left under equal conditions with a motor approaching from the right has the right-of-way. Such is not the fact."

"An effort was made to fix a right-of-way standard at intersections which would be capable of enforcement. The old method of dividing the intersection into quadrants and endeavoring to ascertain which vehicle first entered the intersection brought inquiry to such a degree of distance that it was almost impossible to reach a conclusion as to the fact."

"The line of demarcation under the new act as carried back to the curb line and the driver from the right has the right-of-way if he has first entered the rectangle formed by the four lines drawn around the area produced by the intersecting ways. His right, however, is limited to the case where his rate of speed is lawful, the design being to destroy the incentive to race for the right-of-way."

"The section interpreted by Towne reads:

"A vehicle entering an intersection of public highways at a lawful speed shall have the right of way over a vehicle approaching from its left unless such a vehicle approaches ing from the left shall have first entered into such intersection at a lawful speed in which event the vehicle on the left shall have the right-of-way."

"The rule, according to Towne, is expected to reduce the number of traffic accidents, the majority of which occur at intersections."

"A second important change in the law affects the passing of street cars. In this connection Towne's statement says:

"For a long time motorists had been required to pass standing street cars on the right-hand side only, but there has been no restriction on passing moving cars on the left-hand side, except the general restriction against traveling on the left-hand side of the highway. It is now required that all passing of street cars, whether standing or moving, must be on the right and it is deemed that this provision will prevent many accidents."

"The new act, which the Automobile Association was instrumental in drafting and passing through the legislature, also adds to the troubles of the 'road hog.' In this connection Towne says:

"There are several types of 'road hogs.' Not the least troublesome of these is the man who loafs along the highway at ten miles per hour until someone overtakes him, desires to pass. As soon as the signal is given, indicating such a desire, the loafer accelerates his speed until the overtaking car must exceed the speed limit in order to have him progress again, only to have him progress again arrested by the loafer's tactics of the driver in front. It now becomes a misdemeanor under the new law to increase your speed after you have been given notice that a vehicle in the rear is about to pass."

THREATENING NOTE SENT TO ATHERTON CITIZEN

To receive a note, warning him in scurrilous and indecent language to "lay off the poor people" was the unpleasant experience of A. G. C. Hahn of Atherton, last Wednesday morning. The note was roughly scribbled on a ragged piece of wrapping paper and bore the insignia of the skull and cross bones, across the top was scribbled the words, "death letter" and "first warning." Immediately upon the receipt of the threatening note, the Atherton business man got in touch with the post office department and also with the sheriff's office. The only reason Hahn can assign for the sending of the note is that he has been prominent in the movement to incorporate Atherton, a movement that is deeply resented in Menlo Park.

While Hahn expressed himself as having no fear of bodily damage from the sender of the note, whom he said would be too cowardly for any attempt upon his life, he has taken precautions to see that his place at Atherton is protected against any molestation.

The sending of matter such as the note sent to the Atherton capitalist is a penitentiary offense against the postal laws of the United States, and a vigorous search will be made for the sender of the letter, by the federal officers, who have noted every item in connection with the sending and writing of the threatening missive.

GIFT THAN AN ELECTRIC CLEANER.

An electric cleaner is the best gift for the women because it lightens their everyday burdens of sweeping and cleaning.

It gets in awkward places. It noses its way close to the base boards. It is just as handy for cleaning pillows, upholstery, mattresses and other bed collectors as it is in digging out embedded dust and dirt out of carpets and rugs.

It protects good health because it catches all germs in its dust-proof bag.

For birthdays, anniversaries or other happy occasions there's no better gift than an electric cleaner. Every woman knows this. Every man should.

Robinson, senior, was treated at Palo Alto, where it was found that he had two fractured ribs and other painful injuries. He then proceeded home, leaving his son at the Palo Alto hospital suffering from a broken arm and several cuts, bruises, and an X-ray examination disclosed the fact that the young man's arm had been broken in three places above the elbow. BRIDGE REPORT IS CONFIRMED

Last week we reported that the War Department at Washington had passed favorably on the petition of the Dumbarton Bridge Association for permission to construct a bridge across San Francisco bay at Dumbarton Point. We stated that a telegram had been sent by the War Department, saying that the permit had been granted provisionally, because the builders of the bridge would have to show sufficient capital to construct the bridge before the permit would be in effect. This report though denied, in substance by publications less in a position to be informed in the matter, has since been confirmed by the San Francisco papers.

Claiming that there were irregularities in the procedure of his case against Attorney E. F. Fitzpatrick, his grandmother, Mrs. Lilla Barney, and Archer Kincaid, Benjamin Stanley has filed through his attorney, Samuel Bush, of San Francisco, a motion for a new trial. The document was filed yesterday in the office of County Clerk Elizabeth Kneese and charges that irregularities were induced into the proceedings by almost everyone but himself. The proceedings of the judge, the jury, the witnesses and the defendants themselves are all termed irregular. The motion for a new trial also states that new evidence has been discovered that could not be produced at the last trial.

The filing of this document with the county clerk marks the beginning of the eighth attempt of Stanley to gain control of property deemed to his grandmother, by his mother, Attorney Fitzpatrick represents Mrs. Barney.

TREES — TREES — TREES

San Mateo county now owns one of the finest forests of trees of any county in the world. Three hundred and twelve acres of virgin redwoods passed out of private control this week and became the property of the people of San Mateo county. Trees that have been growing for centuries are now safe from the axe and saw. Trees that for ages have looked down upon the changing conditions around them will not suffer the death that was being prepared for them and will continue to stand as sentinels for countless ages to come as the giant guardians of a vanishing and changing system of things.

We cannot tell what the places where they started to grow three thousand years ago were like. We cannot even dream of what they will be like three thousand years from now. But we know that unless there is some great cataclysm these trees will look over the surrounding country just as serenely then as they do now. We know that they will give shade and homes to the bird life that will come just as they have given harbor and protection to those that have gone.

Trees are the greatest benefactors of the human race. They have given them homes. They have conserved their water supply for them. They have furnished them their means of transportation. They have been all things at all times for an unappreciative people. They have been ruthlessly slaughtered where they should have been conserved.

Almost too late the people of the country have begun to realize that a vanishing race of plant life was in danger of total annihilation. Had legislation been enacted years ago for the preservation of the forests there would be no danger of the change of climate or the loss of our water supply.

We are lovers of trees. If we could have our way there would be no more forest trees cut in California for a hundred years.

THE SUPERVISORS

The supervisors of San Mateo county are worthy of the greatest praise for their action of last Monday when they closed the contract for the purchase of the Peterson timber tract on the Pescadero creek. They performed an act which will cause their names to be revered by future generations. Some one has said that he who plants a tree is a public benefactor and if that is so how much more of a benefactor is the man or woman who saves a whole forest of trees.

The people of San Mateo county are behind the supervisors in this action, and we have not heard of anyone who was opposed to the acquisition of the property. Indeed it is now the consensus of opinion of the people that the Hooper tract of 1080 acres which was suggested as a park site for the county should be secured. With this acreage, San Mateo county could boast of an asset that would be equalled by few political subdivisions of the country. We hope the supervisors may see their way clear to acquire this property, but we are glad that they acted so wisely in securing and saving the Peterson tract.

Members of the Board of Supervisors we salute you. You have done something that was in every way worth while. You have saved for future generations that which will give happiness, health and inspiration.

THE SCHOOLS

The schools of the county have begun to resume operations after the summer vacation and within two weeks practically all of the educational institutions of San Mateo county will be open. The parents of the pupils will be happy to have their offsprings again at their studies. The pupils in most cases are glad to go back and the teachers welcome the return of the recitations.

The summer has been a pleasant one and every one connected with the schools should go back to work refreshed in body and mind and ready for a good year of work.

Education is the most important subject the public is engaged in. All of the potentialities of the future of our country is encompassed by the walls of the school houses scattered throughout the nation. The birthright of every American is a good education. Many, and they regret it afterwards, feel that birthright for a mess of pottage, but the average American has a chance for at least the rudiments of a common school course.

In one of his last speeches President Harding said, "The Federal Government should extend aid to the States for the promotion of physical education, the Americanization of the foreign born, the eradication of illiteracy, the better training of teachers, and for promoting free educational opportunities for all the children of all the people." If the president's ideas could be carried out so that our country would have a strong manhood, free from the curse of illiteracy and with every foreign born resident either a citizen or a candidate for citizenship our educational system would be well nigh to perfection.

PENNY WISE—POUND FOOLISH

It is not infrequently that we hear of a small town whose authorities in order to curry favor with the voting populace, have endeavored to shift the burden of taxation which rightfully should be borne by the people of the town, to other shoulders. The ways designed to accomplish this end are various and ingenious. The latest victim of this system of money raising appears to be the passing motorist, according to reports received from some of the small towns of the county. Being in need of money the authorities, working upon the same principle, as that used by the medieval barons of Europe, who feathered their nests at the expense of the passing traveler, have set the traffic squad to work to raise funds. This policy has resulted in wholesale arrests being made, generally with little or no cause, and fines being levied with little consideration for the offense. Fines imposed with reason, for infringements of the law, may cause the offender to have greater respect for the law in the future, but fining for the sake of the money extorted from the unfortunate individual who happens to come within the grasp of the law, cannot be expected to breed anything but disrespect for the law, and for the authorities who adopt this practical source of revenue.

IMPORTANT MATTERS RECEIVE CONSIDERATION OF SUPERVISORS

Traffic Cops Named and Redwood Timber Tract Purchased In Spite of Large Number of Claims Considered by County Body

Although last Monday was claims day for the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, a day usually dedicated to the perusal of many figures and the consideration of matters financial, the meeting of the board this week was rather an exception to the rule, as two of the most important matters of public interest were considered and wisely decided.

The first matter to be brought before the supervisors at this meeting was the traffic situation. Since the ruling of the Supreme Court, some months ago, that the counties were without legal right to hire or pay traffic officers to patrol the highways, the roads of the county had been unpoliced, as they were in all counties of the state. To relieve this situation, the Red bill had been passed by the State Legislature, enabling the counties to appoint certain officers, to work under the State Motor Vehicle department. These officers are to be employees of the state and to be paid directly by the State, in directly, however, the salary of the traffic officers will come from the county, being derived from the fines collected for traffic offences and from the county's apportionment of auto registration.

The same officers were appointed by the board who formed the traffic squad for the county, before the Supreme Court decision put them out of their jobs, with the exception of Elmer Kreiss, who is now police officer for the Town of Redwood City. To fill the vacancy caused by Kreiss not seeking reappointment, his brother, Chester Kreiss, was appointed by the board. The salary of these men was fixed at $250 per month by the supervisors. At the new regulations call for one of the men to be made chief, and to have charge and be responsible for the enforcement of the laws of the highway, Jimmy Logan was appointed to that position, he being the oldest, in point of service, on the squad. The chief is to receive a salary of $25 in addition to his regular pay.

As the new law is somewhat complex in details, State Inspector Michael Brown, of the State Motor Vehicle department was present at this meeting and explained to the board the workings of the law, and also told of what had been done in other counties.

Having disposed of the traffic problem, the supervisors turned their attention to what is probably one of the most popular actions ever taken by the county board; the purchase of the large tract of timber land on the Pescadero creek for the purpose of a public park. This had been discussed and decided at an executive meeting of the board before the open meeting had convened. It was decided that the county should purchase the Peterson tract for $70,000. This is one of the finest stands of redwood in the county, and the purchase of it by the board, for preservation for the future, will be recorded as one of the wisest acts of the present board.

The redwood timber in this county is fast diminishing, and the saving of this grove from the woodman's axe has struck a popular chord, and it is not unlikely that it will be followed by the purchase of other tracts of timber. The county could make no better investment.

Arriving aboard 100 double-length railroad cars forming trains, more than one and one-third miles long, and made even greater than in 1922 by the addition of many big, new foreign acts, Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined will exhibit at San Francisco, August 31, September 1 and 2.

Those who read the daily papers or who keep in touch with the movie news-reels need not be reminded of the stupendous acts and animals recently imported by the Greatest Show on Earth. The remarkable cargo included two companies of baby elephants are now joined with the forty adults of the mammoth herd. There were also 100 more performing horses, accompanied by Europe's greatest trainer, and many wild animals some of which have been added to the scores upon scores of trained jungle beasts, while others have become part of the marvelous menagerie.

More than a million persons saw the mammoth new circus of 1923 during the weeks that it exhibited in Madison Square Garden, New York. Now this marvelous exhibition is touring the country aboard five great trains. It is a third bigger than the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey show of last season. It is ten times larger than any other circus now on tour.

Big as is this wonder circus of 1923—with its more than thirty trained wild animals displays in steel arenas, fully 200 wonderfully schooled horses, 700 men and women performers, 100 which have scores of features—the price of admission is no more than before. And though the trained animal numbers were circuses in themselves while touring Europe, they are not offered as separate attractions by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey combined show. Instead all are combined in one mammoth main tent. One ticket admits to all these and to the tremendous menagerie. There are more than a thousand animals in the zoo of this circus and these include entire families of hippopotami and giraffes. Another remarkable zoological feature is an armored rhinoceros, the only one known to exist and alone worth $50,000.—Advt.

Whether wearing suspenders is a sign of crudity or of social importance is owing to whether a man wears them for comfort or a woman wears them to keep up her evening gown.

Of course, you know what's wrong with the world, but do you know what's wrong with you? But you can't get away from the fact that if you "spare the rod," you make a big hit with the child.

Then there is the man who has been on the point of making a million many times and then was kept out of it because those who had the million refused to let go of it.

Anyway the motorists still allow the pedestrians to use the sidewalks.

There is no harder job than just trying to make people think.

tion for the offense. Fines imposed with reason, for infringements of the law, may cause the offender to have greater respect for the law in the future, but fining for the sake of the money extorted from the unfortunate individual who happens to come within the grasp of the law, cannot be expected to breed anything but disrespect for the law, and for the authorities who adopt this practical source of revenue.

GYPSY BLOOD—gratified!

You needn't be "raggle-taggle gypsies" to think of life being under open skies, beside a brook with the scent of mountain-pine all about. Better still pack off in your motor—have the summer of your life—traveling comfortably and enjoyably—with the needful "Red Crown" in your tank. If you have gypsy blood, gratify it! And remember—for long, economical mileage, and for powerful work in the mountains and elsewhere—it's "Red Crown" for the experienced motorist.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Menlo Parlor, Native Daughters, will give an old-fashioned dance in the Native Sons Hall, Menlo Park, on Wednesday evening, August 22. The admission will be 50 cents for gentlemen, and 25 cents for ladies. The members of the Parlor are assuring a good time to all those attending.

Mrs. John Sheehan and her daughter, Mrs. Brown, were here during the week calling on old-time friends. Mrs. Sheehan resided here forty years ago when her husband was gardener for the late James L. Flood. Mrs. Sheehan is now residing in San Francisco.

The old oak on the highway near the French laundry was cut down this week by orders of the State Highway Commission. The old oak, with its wide-spreading branches, was an historic relic of the past. It stood in the center of the old El Camino Real, leading from the San Francisco Mission to the Mission Dolores in San Francisco. Father Junipero Serra and his companions on their journey to the San Francisco mission often rested under the cooling shade of the ancient tree. It was the resting place of the padres in the mission days, on their long trips from mission to mission. The name of Father Junipero was quite visible up until fifty years ago, when the name became effaced. Under the boughs of this ancient monarch of the forest gathered holy men and their neophytes, of the Santa Clara Mission to offer prayers of thanksgiving on their long walk to the northern mission. This was during the American Revolution when these holy men were entranced in Christianizing the crude Indian. The tree was fully grown then. It was a fair sized sapling during the glorious reign of old King Tutankamen, whose tomb was recently discovered in Egypt, where he was secretly placed in the mausoleum nearly four thousand years ago. When Jesus of Nazareth was preaching in Galilee, nearly two thousand years ago, this oak had nearly reached its full growth. What a wealth of sentiment was wrapped up in this aged-old tree, which, if it could only talk, would relate interesting tales of remote ages; stories not found in history and books. It is to be regretted that the sturdy pioneer of past ages should become the victim of the woodman's axe. But this is not a sentimental age; it is a century of commercialism, an age of the fast-driving automobile. Over the sacred spot where the oak stood will roll high powered machines with their gay parties on their way to the Stanford bowl to witness football contests. The old land mark will soon be forgotten, but its past labor of love in sheltering and protecting thousands, and thousands of weary travelers, and its leafy branches, from the summer sun and winter rains during the ages, ought to secure for it a favorable mention in history.

Mrs. Frederick W. Sharon has deferred her departure for New York from September 1 until the 15th, or possibly longer.

Today Mrs. Sharon will entertain at a luncheon at the Sharon place at Menlo Park. The affair will be similar to the one which she gave last week. A group of friends will motor down with Mrs. Sharon from San Francisco for the event.

Contract was awarded yesterday by the Board of Public Works to the United States Steel Products Company for the erection of the steel superstructure to carry the Hetch Hetchy aqueduct across the bay near Dumbarton bridge, involving approximately $300,000.

The following marriage license was issued this week at Redwood City: Laurence J. Bernard, 31, Palo Alto, and Patricia McGovern, 27, Menlo Park.

Menlo Park may be likened to a coy and pretty maiden wooed by a number of ardent lovers, who are using all the artifice of the little God of Love to win the hand and heart of the fair charmer. Away to the north the big and brave San Francisco is booming, its rising and its smiling on the beautiful maiden to the south. He promises to make her queen of his vast dominions by the sea. If he can but annex her, her people will be happy, her domain by the San Francisco will be free from taxation, milk and honey will overspread the land and contentment and happiness be the lot of all the inhabitants and she will reign the crowned queen of the north. Beyond the reaches of the San Francisco to the south reigns the young and classic Palo Alto, who is casting shy glances at the winsome maiden. He, too, is making all the use of the tricks of the true lover to win the princess. He hopes to defeat his older rival in love to the north. He points to stately Stanford with its classic environment, his regal gardens and his vast domain stretching from the bay to the hills. He will make her queen of his vast possessions if she will consent to be annexed. Her people will enjoy the good things vouchsafed a modern city. Now this young lover is some what of a Lochinvar out of the West, for he has won the love of a fair damsel, further to the south, Miss Mayfield, who will consent next month to annex herself to this brave and gallant youth. With these two pretty maidens how happy would he be, but Palo Alto will have to contest with a strong, handsome and youthful rival, incorporation, the playmate and childhood chum of the fair haired miss. He lays at her shapely and pretty feet, the sweet-smelling flowers of the valley in which they both romped hand in hand in youth. He urges her to join him that they may reign forever over the kingdom of her fathers; over the domain her forebears fought for and bled and not permit it to be absorbed by freebooters who offer false promises incorporation in pressing his suit promises better government for her people, cheaper taxes, cleaner streets and sweeter gardens and better buildings. Whom will the rosy checked maiden select? Will she choose San Francisco who will take her precious land, give nothing in return but heavy taxation; exploit her territory for larger bond indebtedness for enterprises of his own and rule the land with a pack of wild cats, known as the board of supervisors? Will she accept the youthful Palo Alto with his blandishments that mean nothing and be subjected to the laws of pedagogic idiosyncrasies? Will she look with favor upon her playmate lover? Will she join him that she may reign forever over her own people, retain her proper place with her sister cities on the peninsula, reigning in queenly splendor over the most attractive spot on earth? Or will this comely girl elect to become an old maid, satisfied with the things her father was satisfied with, willing to live in a frontier town with tumbledown shacks on all sides, no modern improvements and sit idly by and watch neighboring cities advance and become attractive and modern municipalities luring a refined and high class citizenry to their precincts?

What will the decision of this beautiful little brown-eyed maid of Menlo be? Time alone will tell.

Santa Clara University opened last Monday with a record-breaking attendance. The members of the freshman class from Menlo Park are Frank and John Morey, Harold O'Keefe and Robert Kane. About ten other students in different classes also are attending the institution from here.

The Menlo Park theatre will close this evening, the owners failing to renew their lease with the Holy Rollers who own the property, and who are coming back to conduct religious services in the building. The theatre will close tonight with "Foolish Wives," an appropriate finale.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Leggett of Atherton entertained twenty-five relatives and friends at a family reunion under the oaks, in honor of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. MacLay of Los Angeles. Among those present was John Widney of Santa Clara, who entertained the guests with an account of early days in the Santa Clara valley, where he settled in 1857.
